2017 Graduates

Cooper Stakenburg & Michael Poli

On 24 January 2018, Cooper Stakenburg and Michael Poli were inducted into the Officer Entry, Royal Australian Navy as Midshipman at a small ceremony of only 9 in Townsville. Both obtained positions as future Marine Engineer Officers.

They have since been at HMAS Cresswell, Jervis Bay, NSW completing the New Entry Officer Course which has seen them complete all facets of military, survival, leadership and officer training, including short periods at sea and on board HMAS Canberra in Sydney. Both are due to graduate from this course on 14 June 2018 at a Marching Out Ceremony. Although a gruelling course, testing their physical and mental stamina, leadership and teamwork, they have enjoyed the experience and time spent with others from around the Nation. They will now travel on placement to other locations in Australia, before commencing their engineering degree at the Australian Defence Force Academy, Canberra in January 2019.
